Chris was born and raised in London ON, Canada living there until he was 16. Chris then moved to Niagara Falls with his Mom, Brother and Step Dad to finish his last two years of High School. Since High School, Chris spent three years training and on staff with Youth With A Mission (YWAM) and two years in downtown Toronto working with Youth and volunteering with a number of other programs.

This past summer Chris was given the opportunity to coordinate two soccer leagues run by the Salvation Army Bloor Central and their many wonderful partners (including Oasis). During this time Chris saw the potential for sports outreach programs to be used as a means of winning influence in and affecting change in communities for the benefit of the Kingdom.

Chris loves foreign cultures, as evidenced by his years in YWAM, and has fallen in love with Toronto's multicultural Western Core. Chris is working towards starting more programs to benefit Youth in this area and drawing more enthusiastic followers of Christ to the area that the plentiful harvest would have workers to collect it.

In the fall of 2010, Chris began his first full-time year at Tyndale University. Here he is working on a Bachelor of Arts in Religious Studies and English in order to increase his effectiveness as a worker for the Kingdom of Heaven. Chris is a singer songwriter on the guitar and loves to play hockey where on ice he is an experienced goaltender.
